A note to parents
from Miss Julie,
Center Director

Stomping in mud puddles, digging in piles of dirt, swinging on a swing, catching bugs, picking vegetable from the garden..... these are all ways kids and nature go hand in hand. The outdoors provides an exciting place for kids to play, explore, observe, discover, and be challenged. There are many ways to engage kids in nature.

1. Scavenger hunt - Kids love searching for things! Make lists with words or pictures and see how many different things kids can find in the yard.
2. Picnic - Kids love to eat outside! Throw a blanket on the ground or grab a table and enjoy a meal together.
3. Nature journal - Kids like to express themselves with pictures and words. Provide kids a small, booklet of paper and have them find a quiet place in the yard. Kids can record what they hear, see, smell and experience in their journals.
4. Dig in the dirt - Plant colorful flowers or a veggie garden in the yard.

EARTH DAY – FRIDAY, APRIL 22

Spring is here and as the snow melts we will find mud. Please remember to bring a change of clothes and water proof boots and layers for this season. It is an exciting time to get outside and run off our energy. It is also a time for spring cleaning and getting ready for an exciting summer ahead.
